NTSB report:

Young pilot in last June's fatal crash had been flying erratically

By MICHAEL DANIELS/A.P.

A year after a plane crash on the side of Barker Mountain took the lives of three Lewiston High School students and their pilot, federal investigators last week released a report on the crash.

The four-page report, from the National Transportation Safety Board, drew no overt conclusions as to the cause of the crash, but it did note there was no evidence of mechanical problems with the aircraft, and that during an earlier flight on the day of the crash the pilot flew barefoot and performed "dip" and "zero G" maneuvers.

The June 22, 2006 crash took the lives of the pilot, William "Charlie" Weir, 24, of Auburn, and his three passengers.

The three high-school students were Air Force Junior R.O.T.C. cadets on an orientation flight that was part of a summer camp program.

According to the NTSB report, the fatal flight took off from the Bethel Airport at approximately 2 p.m. "made an 'immediate' right turn directly toward Barker Mountain in a tail low attitude. As it approached the mountain it turned farther right until it was paralleling the mountain."

New book puts Bethel in top-ten tier of '101 Best Outdoor Towns'

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel is right up there near the top in a new listing of the country's "101 Best Outdoor Towns."

That's the title of a new book by veteran outdoor writers Sarah Tuff and Greg Melville. All of the "undiscovered adventure capitals" identified in the book offer their own mix of outdoor recreational opportunities, but a favorable listing is as much a testament to what a town does not offer (or, perhaps, inflict on) visitors.

The book's subtitle is "Unspoiled places to visit, live & play."

Tuff and Melville say they sought out towns "that haven't been gobbled up by Gucci boutiques and billion-dollar condominium developments."

And Bethel certainly qualifies, as outdoor-oriented and relatively uncommercialized.

Enough so that of the 101 towns in the book, Bethel is ranked number nine in the overall category: "Top 10 Best Outdoor Towns."

The number-one town, Lake Placid, N.Y. is also in the Northeast, but Bethel is the only New England town to be included in the top 10.

The book also lists the au-

D.A. Wilson & Co. recently completed work for the Department of Conservation at the popular Frenchman's Hole swimming spot in Riley Township. Improvements include a new parking lot and privy, rock "guardrails" and rock steps down to the Sunday River. The steps will minimize erosion caused by people walking down the riverbank, said Pete Smith of the Department of Conservation, and the rocks along the road prevent parking on the side of the road next to the river. In 2003 the department purchased the popular swimming area and 385 acres of surrounding property from Roy Newton. The Mahoosuc Land Trust contributed 10 percent of the $375,000 cost of the parcel. MLT is responsible for regular cleanup of the site and Walter and Carolyn Hatch do most of the work. Walter said that in recent years, it appears that people using the area have been doing a better job of taking care of their trash.

ASC is history

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Board of Directors of the American Skiing Company is closing up shop.

The board has filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission to dissolve the corporation and cease all business operations.

According to the filing, the formal dissolution is expected to take three weeks to complete.

The filing comes after the board had approved an agreement to sell two of ASC's three remaining ski resorts — Sunday River and Sugarloaf/USA in Maine — to Boyne USA, of Boyne Falls, Mich.

ASC's sole remaining ski area, The Canyons Resort in Utah, will become the property of Oak Hill Capital Partners, a private equity firm that bought into ASC in 1999 and eventually became its largest shareholder.

Holders of ASC's common stock will receive nothing for their investment, according to the filing.

ASC was formed by Les Otten, then the owner of Sunday River, in the mid-1990s.

The company eventually grew to include eight ski resorts and their associated real estate, in both New England and the West.

In 1997 Otten took the company public, in an initial pub-

Gilead men treated after attack by rabid bat

By ALISON ALOISIO

It was, said Bev Corriveau of Gilead, "like a horror story."

On the morning of June 15, her husband, Fernand, son Frank and son-in-law Chris were in Mexico working at a hydro plant site on property they own.

A bat kept flying around them. That seemed strange, Bev said, because it was still daytime, and bats are typically nocturnal.

"They had the tailgate open," said Bev. "Fernand said to the others, 'I'll shut it so it doesn't get in there and surprise us on the way home.'"

But as he shut the gate, the bat "landed on his shoulder and grabbed him in the neck," Bev said.

Page 4: What to do when a bat bites.

He grabbed the bat and threw it on the ground. The animal started flying around again, so Chris swung at it with his hat, knocking it back to the ground.

Frank stepped on and killed it, then threw it over an embankment.

The animal had bitten Fernand hard enough that "it bled quite a lot," said Bev.

Late in the afternoon, the men headed home. But when Bev heard the story, she wondered if the bat might have been sick, and called their doctor.

"He said we needed to either find that bat, or start treatment (for rabies) right away," said Bev.

Rabies is a viral disease of the brain and spinal cord that is almost always fatal.

So she and Fernand headed back to Mexico, and around 6 p.m., with the help of a flash light, found the bat.

They went to the emergency room at the Rumford Community Hospital.

There, she said, they were told they needed to take the bat to Augusta, to the state lab for rabies testing.

Fernand and Bev went home

Andover voters approve recycling fees, funding

By ALISON ALOISIO

At a special Town Meeting in Andover last Thursday, all seven articles regarding the town's transfer station were approved either unanimously or nearly unanimously.

There was an hour and a half of debate at the meeting, but much of that was devoted to an item only tangentially related to the transfer station — the town's Revaluation Account.

Compactor

Andover recently adopted a new process for dealing with recyclables known as single-sort recycling.

Instead of sorting the items themselves at home before bringing them to the transfer station, residents may now collect all recyclables in one container.

At the station they are dumped together into a single bin, which is hauled to South Portland and sorted.

To make the new process more efficient, selectmen and the town committee overseeing the change proposed that Andover purchase a new compactor.

The compactor would compress the recyclables and reduce the number of trips needed to transport them.

The article called for raising $17,300 for the compactor, a gas-powered unit to run it and a concrete pad.

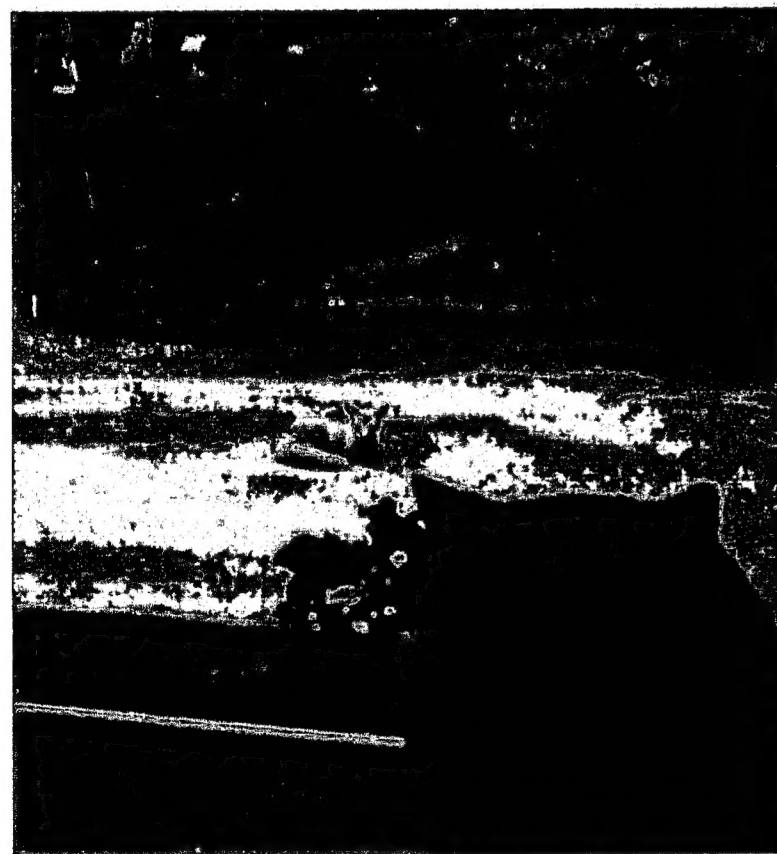

Keith Farrington argued the town should wait until the next annual Town Meeting in March to decide on the compactor, allowing time first to see how the new process affects the level of recycling by townspeople.

But Wayne Delano said he favored buying the compactor right away. "If you're going to recycle, there's no sense in hauling air with it," he said.

From there the discussion turned to how to finance the compactor.

SHAM OF A HEARING

To the Editor:

The following are a few of my personal observations while attending the public Greenwood Planning Board hearing concerning the Round Pond Marina application.

A one-hour time period was allotted for the public to voice their support or opposition to the project.

Unfortunately, the chairman of the board assumed a biased position as cheerleader for the applicant; such as telling those opposed that the project should be approved so that the town will receive more tax money — disregarding any of the negative consequences previously noted by the public.

When someone supported the project he cheered them on with remarks such as: "Hear! Hear!" in support of their statements. This behavior is totally unprofessional. Such bias should not be revealed either for or against the proposal by the Planning Board members.

Answering the public's questions regarding ordinance limitations is one thing, but being a proponent for either side should not happen in this type of forum.

Members should listen objectively, and make their decisions based on the existing ordinances, and the public input at the hearing. They should not display their own preconceived positions prior to the conclusion of the meeting, as it makes the proceedings appear as a mere sham — and the citizens' heartfelt concerns of no importance to them.

CONDOR OVERFLIGHT FACTS

To the Editor:

Ref: Mr. Lyon's letter of last week. To my mind there is one fact that trumps all others in this matter. That is this: The Air National Guard has a legitimate reason to be flying in our area as part of their mission to defend this nation against airborne threats at all possible altitudes. An integral part of this mission is to train in all the envelopes where threats are possible, especially at low altitudes where potential bad guys may try to evade radar detection.

The Air Force and ANG have studied all other practical training areas and find none that are of value for low altitude overland training because they are either much more congested or too far away from their bases (coastal Massachusetts and/or Burlington, Vt.) to be useful due to the limited unrefueled range of these fighters.

Further, under the proposed concept of operations; the probability of any of these aircraft crossing any one spot on the ground at low altitude in either Condor area more than once or twice a month is remote, and then the loudest jet noise will last perhaps 10 or 15 seconds! Hence, any danger to persons on the ground is so miniscule as to be probably less than that of being struck by lightning.

Any red-blooded American who was not in a coma on 9/11 and still believes that we need no air defense needs our sympathy, but not our support against the ANG training flights.

IT'S A MATTER OF FREEDOM

To the Editor:

No one can argue with the need for our military to train. That's a given.

However, choosing the right location for low military flights isn't a simple matter and not every location is well suited. Citizens have a right and a duty to stay informed so they may conduct a dialogue with their government about such issues. In turn, government has a duty to supply citizens with accurate information so that dialogue may be conducted. It's called democracy.

When citizens can't obtain accurate and reliable information, democracy is threatened. It has been acknowledged that much of the material made available, thus far, about low military flights contains erroneous and out-of-date information. How can a valid comment period commence on this or any vital issue without critical source materials? If we really are the leaders of the free world, we need to demonstrate how that freedom is conducted.

ARTS FESTIVAL VOLUNTEERS

To the Editor:

The second annual Performing Arts Festival will run in Bethel from Aug. 5 thru 12.

This year's program, which has adopted a theater-based format in several local venues, will feature the following performances and events:

"Doc Faust! A Wild Western Musical" — The U.S. premiere of an hilarious adaptation of the legend of Faust and his pact with the devil set in the Wild West. Five performances, including a half-price Preview and a Gala Premiere, presented by a resident company of six actors.

"Dreaming of Summer" — An evening concert and commentary by pianist, composer and recording artist Robin Spielberg, a member of the honored Steinway Artist Roster.

"Cupid & Psyche" — A puppet show for the entire family by Maine's Figures of Speech Theatre Company. A morning workshop will precede the afternoon performance.

"Theatre Origins," an informal lecture by festival artistic director Andrew Harris; "Mainly Humorous," an evening of light-hearted skits; and "Spaghetti & Western," a pub-night of readings and skits by the Doc Faust cast.

Once again, residents and businesses of Bethel and neighboring communities are generously supporting the festival in numerous ways — providing lodging and meals for the acting company, serving as volunteers at performances, operating a concession stand, and contributing all-important financial support of the festival's offerings.

If you would like to volunteer your time and energy to the festival, please call Susan Herlihy at 824-3932. It takes many hands to create a successful performing arts program. Thank you.

'YES, I WANT TO SHOW MY ART'

To the Editor:

These past few weeks I have had conversations with a variety of shy, novice and closeted artists regarding the prospect of showing their art at the upcoming Shy, Novice and Closeted Art Show. For some folks their shyness makes it seemingly impossible to fathom showing their art. For others they are truly a novice and at first shake their head no, then move to a maybe and then light up with the idea of "yes, I want to show my art." Others are extraordinary artists but only consider themselves a novice. And others truly live with closets filled with their art that longs to be displayed.

If you are one of these artists, or know of one, the Shy, Novice and Closeted Art Show is here for you! We are here to support and encourage you to bring your works of art to 18 High Street (directly behind Key Bank) in time to be hung for the July 7 show (preferably before or by July 6). We can possibly help to matt and frame your work, and we are happy to hang/display your art as is. For more information, please contact me at 824-3889.

The third annual Shy, Novice and Closeted Art Show is held on Saturday, July 7, complementing the annual Art Fair on the Bethel Common. It is a great day for art in our community. So on your way to or from the common please visit this unique Art Show!

Andover

An amendment was proposed to pay for the compactor with funds from the town's Revaluation Account, which has $50,000 in it.

Money had been approved for the account at two successive annual town meetings.

But this year a similar article on the annual meeting warrant was tabled.

Voters said they wanted to wait to see if another statewide tax referendum might take place, and if it did, what the implications for Andover might be.

But at last week's meeting, Delano said that at a recent selectmen's meeting, the board discussed going ahead with a revaluation.

Delano advocated getting the money out of the account to prevent that from happening.

Selectman Jeff Rainey said he was not at the selectmen's meeting, but said there was no discussion about hiring anyone to do a revaluation.

"We're not here to do things on our own," said Rainey. "To insinuate that happened is wrong."

It was noted that the selectmen's meetings are taped, so the discussion could be reviewed.

Kevin Scott said he favored using the money in the account toward the compactor.

But others felt the money should remain in the account for which it was originally designated, and the amendment failed narrowly, 27-22.

When the vote was taken on purchasing the compactor, it passed nearly unanimously.

Fees

Also approved were articles establishing fees for the disposal of refrigerators, air conditioners, cathode ray tubes, tires and shingles.

The shingles article was amended to charge $20 for a car trunk load, instead of $25.

On an article to raise $1,500 to build a new 8x12 shed at the transfer station, an amendment was made to increase the amount to $2,000.

The extra funds will be used to build a large overhang on the shed's roof to shelter items available to swap among residents.

Two articles defeated

The last two articles addressed paying for a recently-purchased bucketloader, and funding emergency-management equipment.

The bucketloader question proposed taking $21,500 from the Revaluation Account to pay the remaining balance on the machine.

The question drew arguments similar to those raised in discussion about funding the compactor. There were also some questions about the interest rates on the borrowed funds.

The article was eventually defeated.

Voters also defeated a request for $300 for the town's emergency management agency. Rainey said the funds would be used to buy radios for town officials for use in an emergency.

But some voters said more such requests would likely follow, and the question was voted down.

Two die in moose accident

HOWLAND—State Police say a man and woman from central Maine were killed late Tuesday night when their vehicle struck a dead moose and then slammed into the rear of a tractor trailer. The crash took place in the southbound lanes on Interstate 95 in Howland about 10 p.m. Killed in the crash was 31 year old Kirk Sirois of Norridgewock and his passenger, 31 year old Sandra Shaw of Madison. Troopers said the Jeep Wrangler Sirois was driving struck the remains of the moose at Mile 215 and the vehicle then swerved into the breakdown lane and into the rear of a tractor trailer. The big rig had initially struck and killed the animal and had pulled to the side of the road. Both Sirois and Shaw died at the scene. Troopers said a second vehicle also struck the remains and ended up off the road, but no one was injured in that vehicle. The driver of the tractor trailer, 24 year old Adam Tomkins of Tilley, New Brunswick was not injured. State Police there have been a rash of moose collisions along the Interstate around Medway during the past month and the Maine Department of Transportation has had message boards in the area warning motorists to lookout for the animals. This is the second fatal moose collision in Maine this year. On Memorial Day weekend a woman was killed when her car struck a moose on Interstate 95, just north of Medway. State Police remind motorists that this is the time of year when moose are on the move. In addition to the moose collisions in northern Maine, these has also been dozens of collisions with the animals along the Maine Turnpike in southern Maine. State Police advise that motorists need to be extra cautious, especially at night, when it is difficult to see the animals. If a collision is imminent, hitting the animal at an angle will likely deflect the body away from the passenger compartment.

New boss: Killington needs work

KILLINGTON, VT—The new president of the Killington ski resort says he's got his work cut out for him returning the resort to the "gem" it used to be. But Chris Nyberg said he liked challenges. While the lifts and the trails are in good shape, Nyberg said a lot of routine maintenance had been neglected in other parts of the resort, which is spread across seven mountains, with 33 lifts and 200 trails on 1,200 acres of skiable terrain. "There hasn't been that much money put into this facility in recent times," said Nyberg, a 30-year ski industry veteran. "I'll be honest, there's a lot of work to do in that regard." Last month, Powdr Corp. and SP Land Corp. completed the $85.2 million purchase of Killington and neighboring Pico from American Skiing Co. Powdr is taking over the ski and snowboard portion of the operation while SP Land will develop the long-proposed ski village at the base of Killington. Powdr is planning to spend $3 million this summer on maintenance, including replacing a major snowmaking pipe at Pico. No new lifts or trails are being planned right away. Powdr, based in Utah, owns six other resorts, all in the West, including Park City Mountain Resort, the site of the 2002 Winter Olympics. Nyberg said Powdr owner John Cumming gives his managers "a high degree of autonomy." The resorts get to retain the money they make during the season to reinvest in improvements, but it also means Killington shouldn't look to Powdr for an infusion of capital. "We can take that money and put it back into our business as opposed to perhaps going someplace else," said Nyberg.

Moss study unearths skull

AURORA—Maine State Police have launched an investigation into a human skull and jawbone that a group of biologists stumbled across while studying moss samples in rural Hancock County. The remains were found last week near a scenic lookout off Route 9 in Aurora, said spokesman Stephen McCausland. They belong to an adult male and are at least two years old and possibly older. Detectives have turned the skull and jawbone over to the state medical examiner's office for identification, but McCausland said it's too early to consider the findings suspicious. Police also are looking through active missing persons cases. The discovery was made Thursday when a group of about 10 biologists from the Humboldt Field Research Institute in Steuben were studying a type of wetland moss. Detectives scoured the area Friday looking for additional remains, McCausland said, but suspended the search pending additional information from the medical examiner's office. "There has been no decision on where or when we would return to continue searching," McCausland said. "We need to wait for input from the medical examiner's office. It all depends on whether we have dental records or other means of identification to compare with."

face. It then passed over the mountain face and disappeared from view."

Just over an hour later the crash site was located from the air, on a remote, heavily wooded part of the mountain, at 2,070 feet above sea level.

At that point the wreckage was burning.

By the time rescuers were able to reach the scene three hours later, the airplane's cabin had been consumed by post-impact fire.

The four bodies were recovered the following day.

Earlier flight rough

The NTSB report quotes cadets who had flown with Weir earlier in the day as saying the pilot said he flew barefoot so he could feel the rudders better.

Cadets told NTSB investigators that after departing and turning right on the earlier flight, Weir headed over the top of some ATV trails and logging roads.

After circling Sunday River Ski Resort and around a mountain, the flight instructor initiated a climb and the plane stalled, "fell backwards and to the left," then dove toward the ground.

Since the crash, the Air Force Junior ROTC headquarters in Alabama has issued rules that prohibit pilots from performing aeronautic maneuvers such as stalls during an orientation flight.

"At approximately 75 to 100 feet above the treetops, and 300 feet from the side of the mountain, the flight instructor recovered and headed back in the direction of the airport," the report says.

A cadet on that flight said that during the flight they were between 1,000 to 1,200 feet, but the plane also flew close to the treetops, which was "kind of scary."

The report also notes that on the earlier run the pilot missed the runway and was forced to turn and repeat his approach.

Weir held a commercial pilot certificate, and his logbook indicated he had a total of 862 hours of flight experience.

He was flying that day for Twin Cities Air Services of Auburn.

The Cessna 172 was one of two aircraft from Twin Cities that were conducting orientation flights that day.

The NTSB report notes that between 12:30 and 1 p.m. that day, a witness in Paris reported seeing two aircraft similar to those from Twin Cities flying overhead in the direction of the Bethel Airport.

The witness reported that the first airplane was "flying fairly flat," but the second seemed to be "playing, making sweeps."

Since the crash, the Air Force Junior ROTC headquarters in Alabama has issued rules that prohibit pilots from performing aeronautic maneuvers such as stalls during an orientation flight.

Top towns

thors' choice of the top five towns for 11 types of outdoor activities

One of those categories is hiking, and Bethel comes in at number five on that list — in large part thanks to the recently opened Grafton Loop. Again, Bethel is the only town in New England to make that list.

Two other Maine towns, Kingfield and Southwest Harbor, also make the top 101 list, but neither appears in any of the 11 "top-five" rankings.

Other New England towns that are assigned a top-five rating include East Burke, Vt. (number four, Mountain Biking); Jackson N.H. (number four, Cross-country Skiing); Tiverton, R.I. (number two Sailing/Kiteboarding/Windsurfing); Montpelier, Vt. (number three, Road Biking); and Middlebury Vt. and Williamstown, Mass. (numbers one and four, Outdoor College Towns).

"The greatest"

It must be noted that the book is marred by inaccuracies and random bits of hyperbole that tend to undermine confidence in its broader judgments.

For example, the sole photo in the Bethel section is of the Artist's Bridge in Newry, which is identified as "a covered bridge in Bethel."

And the smaller of the area's two ski areas is anointed "family-friendly Mt. Abraham."

The authors also note, (without citing any source) that "Bethel has been named the greatest ski town in the universe."

"101 Best Outdoor Towns: Unspoiled places to visit, live & play," is published by The Countryman Press, of Woodstock, Vt.

It is available at Books-N-Things in Bethel.

Bat bite

with the dead bat in a bag of ice.

For a time there was some confusion over whose responsibility it would be to transport the bat — theirs, or an animal control officer's.

It was eventually determined that an ACO would take it. On Saturday, a relative of the Corriveau took the bat and met the Mexico ACO in Hanover.

Late Monday afternoon Bev got a call. The bat was rabid.

The Corriveau decided to go to the Bridgton Hospital for treatment.

There, they were told that in addition to Fernand, the other two men would need to have five sessions of shots.

There was a risk for the other men because Chris had put his hat back on after hitting the bat with it, and Frank had picked it up to throw it over the embankment, Bev said.

Fernand was given six shots that first day, and the others four.

The entire series takes about a month to complete, they were told.

Bev said she does not yet know the cost, or whether insurance will cover any of it.

Fernand is feeling no ill effects from the experience.

Dr. Kathleen Gensheimer, a state epidemiologist, said there is "no definitive time frame" within which the shots must begin.

She said it cannot always be determined if a person has been bitten by a bat.

Sometimes a bat is found in the room of a sleeping individual, such as a child, and the shots are given as a precaution. Gensheimer said rabies shots generally cost a minimum of $1,500, and can go as high as $3,000.

State stats on rabies

In 2006 144 people in Maine were recommended to receive the shots as a result of exposure to a rabid animal or an animal that was not available to be tested, according to the website for the Maine Center for Disease Control and Prevention.

The website also notes that in the year 2006, 258 bats were submitted to the state for rabies testing, and 15 tested positive.

Bats were by far the species most commonly submitted for testing.

The virus can infect any mammal. Of animals submitted for testing, the highest percentages of positive test results were from raccoons and skunks — more than 50 percent for each. A total of 127 mammals tested positive in 2006.

A map showing the distribution by county of reported rabid animals shows that Oxford County reported between one and five animals.

What to do if bitten (and when)

The state website provides the following steps to follow if you think you have been exposed to a rabid animal:

1. Immediately wash the wound with soap and water, and continue washing for at least 10 minutes.

2. Call your doctor or health care professional as soon as you finish washing. They will help you decide if you need to be treated for rabies. Follow their instructions completely.

3. Contact your town's Animal Control Officer. The town office or selectman or your local law enforcement agency can tell you how to contact the ACO. The ACO or police officer will need your help in locating the animal that has bitten or scratched you. If the suspected animal is located and captured, it will be quarantined and observed (dog or cat) or it will be euthanized and sent to the State Health and Environmental Testing Laboratory in Augusta.

4. If your pet has been bitten or scratched by an animal that you think might be rabid, follow the same steps and notify your veterinarian.

Ozzie Hart of Bethel, an ACO for area towns and an animal damage control officer with the Maine Warden Service, said anyone bitten by a potentially rabid animal should first try to contact the ACO for the town in which the incident took place.

The ACO can arrange for the animal to be taken to Augusta, he said.

On a weekend, if it is difficult to identify or contact the ACO, people may call Oxford County 911 dispatch to make the contact, Hart said.

He said it's important not to freeze the animal, because freezing destroys the rabies virus.

lic offering that raised $260 million.

But throughout its 10-year history, ASC was hobbled by a high debt load, and for none of those years was the corporation able to post an annual profit.

The corporation's financial travails were mirrored in its stock price.

On the day of the IPO, ASC stock was offered at $18 a share, but by the closing bell that day, shares had dropped to $17.

Aside from the occasional upward blip, that trend was never reversed, despite various financial restructurings and infusions of more cash.

In 2001, following the collapse of a planned merger with Meristar Hotels & Resorts, Otten was forced out as ASC's chairman and chief executive officer.

By the end of that year, one stock analyst who had initially recommended ASC common stock declared it to be "essentially worthless."

In 2002 ASC announced it was moving its corporate headquarters from Newry to Park City, Utah.

Otten eventually retired from ASC's board, but he was back on the scene earlier this year, with a bid to buy back Sunday River and Sugarloaf.

His bid, however, was rejected, and the current ASC board of directors agreed to sell the two resorts to Michigan-based Boyne for $77 million.

That deal is expected to close by July 31.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

I, for one, am really glad that summer has arrived. So far it's been on the cool side and that's fine with me. It is usually right about this time of the year that we start experiencing some darned hot and humid days. We've been pretty lucky, with the exception of a few hot days so far.

I like the summer weather on the cooler side for a number of reasons. Low nighttime temperatures are much more comfortable for sleeping. I hate having a fan blowing on me all night and I know there are nights ahead when two fans will be necessary. But for now it's quite pleasant and I do like that.

I also like the idea that one can work outside without dropping from heat exhaustion. Notice I said idea, because I haven't actually spent a lot of time working outside, but if I want to I could do it without sweat running into my eyes and elsewhere.

The best thing about the cooler weather is the clothing options. I can still wear bulge-friendly clothing without being too hot. I favor slacks or jeans and long-sleeve, bulky tops to cover a multitude of bulges and flab. All too soon I will have to let a lot more hang out than I care to or suffer extreme discomfort.

There was a time when I wore cute little shorts and halter tops on hot summer days and looked pretty darn good. Of course, those were younger and slimmer days. Who the heck am I kidding; those were childhood days.

Though even in adulthood I could wear Bermuda shorts and a tank top and look okay. Even a bathing suit didn't prove to be a total embarrassment. But that was a long time ago and now with my ever-expanding shape, self-respect and social decency dictate that I keep myself covered.

I haven't even owned a bathing suit in years and years. I had a brief lapse in reality a few weeks ago when I considered buying a bathing suit thinking I might go swimming with the grandkids this summer. A trip to the department store slapped me back into reality in a hurry.

Have you seen what's out there for bathing suits? What are they thinking? Surely the designers had no one weighing over 100 pounds in mind when they fashioned these little bits of material and called them swimwear.

Have you seen what's out there for bathing suits? What are they thinking?

I actually found one in my size, or at least according to the tag it was, but parts of me that it would not cover could get me arrested.

Some of the bathing suits, if they did come in my size and praise be that they don't, I wouldn't even be able to figure out how to put them on. They seemed to be more like a contraption of straps with little pockets of material than bathing suits. And those little thong numbers, well, don't they just give a whole new meaning to wedgie!

I can only imagine what a woman of the Victorian era would think if she could see the swimwear of 2007. I can only imagine what the men of that era would think.

I wouldn't care to revisit that period when women were treated as second-rate citizens, but after seeing the current bathing suit styles, the top to bottom coverage of the mid-1800's does have a certain amount of appeal to me.

The women did not wear bathing suits; they wore bathing dresses. They were neck high, long-sleeve affairs that went down to mid-shin and weights were often sewn into the hems so they wouldn't billow up in the water and reveal anything. And a matching pair of bloomers down to the ankles were also required. Imagine what it was like to swim in those outfits. At least they concealed the bulges along with everything else.

It just so happens that I received two catalogs today. One was from a company that markets to mature full-figured women and one that markets to a much younger and slimmer audience. The first catalog had a few bathing suits that were one piece and the basic style was okay, but the patterns were loud, garish floral prints. If I ever do wear a bathing suit again I certainly don't want a giant hot pink hibiscus on my butt.

The other catalog had a number of slinky little bathing suits in both one-piece and two, but I think some of the one piece suits had less material than a handkerchief. I suppose they would be fine on the size 2 figure that was available, but what amazed me was that they were also available up to size 4X. The only thing that was more amazing was a two-piece bathing suit made of some miracle fiber that was one size fits all!

The way I see it this won't be the year that I buy a new bathing suit. If the weather stays cool I won't even have to think about it and if it gets so hot that I feel I need the relief I can always drape myself with a sheet, weight down the ends, put on a pair of bloomers and call it a swimming dress.

Bethel

Glenn M. Bangs, Specialist, grandson of Bob and Ginny Keniston, is home in South Paris for two weeks on leave. Glenn is a member of the intensive care unit in the 333rd. Combat Hospital Team in Iraq. At home, he has a wife, Julie, and three young daughters, Kalya, Abby, and Madison.

I would like to thank one of my readers for the lovely letter I received recently; it reads as follows:

"Dear Ginny, I have been subscribing to the Bethel Citizen for many years, and have continued doing so mainly to read your column. I get my copy the week following publication and was sorry to read in this week's issue your announcement this was your last column. You have done a great job over the many years, and it has been sort of like receiving a weekly letter from you - Kath and I both enjoyed reading it. Congratulations on your retirement, however, and Hi to Bob. With regards, Charlie."

Thank you, Charlie.

Inside and Outside
Mayville

By Donald G. Bennett
We made a late-in-the-season yard seemed pretty barren but some work was going on.

Donations of gravel and rocks are being sought by the Riverside Cemetery Association to offset money costs of repairing the cemetery's riverbank this summer. The repair plan calls for an estimated 1,300 cubic yards of gravel and 4,100 cubic yards of 24-inch rock for a rip-rap barrier - an additional 120 cubic yards of 3-inch stone is also called for. Donations will be acknowledged promptly and publicly. The association is also looking to hire a qualified person to be inspector and insure complete job fulfillment by the contractor. Donors and candidates for the inspector job should call Donald Brooks at 824-2670 or Roger Conant at 824-2269 or Arlan Jodrey at 824-2239 or Donald Bennett at 824-2094. Bethel Town Manager Scott Cole is looking forward to an early chance to familiarize whoever is hired as inspector with the overall construction plan and materials specifications. The entire job is expected to last eight days barring bad weather or unforeseen obstacles.

In-town sources told me that Lindley Wieden had been in town for his first visit to Bethel since leaving four years ago. The Wiedens moved to Madison, Maine when they left Bethel. While visiting, Lindley stayed with Mary and Bud Paine, attended a Masonic meeting, visited with his former neighbors on Evergreen Road and then went to South Paris for a meeting of retired teachers where his wife Polly, who has passed away, was remembered by the gathering. Lindley was guidance counselor at Telstar before his retirement.

Mayville gained two new residents before the official opening of summer. Ross Timberlake's mother, Nan, has moved to Ross's and Carole's home from her long-time home on Church Street. And in our household we welcomed Kathy's mother, Mildred Larsen, on June 9. Kathy and her mother made their social debut together at last Thursday's Red Hat luncheon at S.S. Milton. Mrs. Larsen came to Bethel from The Villages in Central Florida; she must have felt that winters there were getting too warm and needed a cooler climate.

Sunday morning a stream of bikers was flowing northward by our house. It was a group of MOOSA's, so I found out by a call to Bethel Outdoor Adventure. MOOSA stands for Maine Original Outstanding Super Adventures organized by In Motion Events. The MOOSA riders had camped at the BOA. Their number is only a small part of the more than a thousand skinny-tired bikes that pass by on our section of Route 2 from mid May to November.

John and Pat Thurston have their home on the market for sale. It is a very private location with a breathtaking view of the valley looking westward.

Sunday we drove to Sunday River to recon the area's newest "homes for the loaded" project - The Colony at Sunday River. We found that it is sitting on land that was once in the 1930s to circa 1970 my uncle Julian Howard's tree farm. Bryce Yates bought the tree farm from Julian Howard. If you stand by the Sunday River Road near the late "Gabe" Harrington's truck garage and look across the road to Barker Mountain you see The Colony signs and model home. If you have the Sunday River Sketches, look at page 264 to see the house once there. (The map following page 148 shows the place as #12, John Brown, later Willie and Esther Powers.) Entrance to the model is at the Pump Road intersection with Sunday River Road. Kathy and I were impressed with the style and construction of the model. The Colony site plan map on the Internet shows 68 lots. See www.thecolonyatsundayriver.com. Also see "Mayville News" in www.thebetheljournals.info for photos of the location and model home.

Please call me at 824-2094 or e-mail me: Donald@thebetheljournals.info with any questions, comments or news items.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

"What is so rare as a day in June?" Or is it, "What is so rare as a sunny day in June?" We have had a few but last Saturday was more like late October than June.

Liz Stanczyk, Sue Nelson and yours truly went down to Bethel to attend the Rotary Yard Sale. We were expecting to find weather much better than up beyond the notch. Boy, were we wrong. The parking lot at Telstar was a step up from freezing. It was a good sale, which gave us the opportunity to exchange gossip with our Bethel friends.

Back up on the hill, Upton came back to life after another winter. The lupine is peak now with patches in every area of town. Mabel Durkee would be proud to see the exceptional display at Casey's. Barbara Stratton is very proud of her "James MacFarland" lilac, which is covered with blooms for the first time. Usually the deer have pruned it to a nub. We are sorry to have missed last week's column. We sent it in but obviously it was lost in Cyberspace.

Brian Knightly's new home is going up fast. The view should be spectacular looking down over Lake Umbagog.

Saturday night at the "Bull Moose" was standing room only. Plans are afoot for a "Big Band" challenge in August.

We are invaded every night by a huge bear. It has visited every dooryard, destroying birdfeeders. The poor thing is probably hungry. At this time of year there are no berries or apples to sustain them. It visited "Birch Point" over the weekend leaving large claw marks on the back of Stratton's. It also bent the pole of Kenney's birdfeeder in half. The pole was made of metal, but this creature is very strong. I hung two of those square suet things out about a week ago. They disappeared

The Memorial Service was held for Debbie Judkins' mother at the Lutheran Church in Berlin on June 23. The following day a Celebration of Dorothy's Life was held at Debbie's home in Upton.

We had many visitors to Upton over the weekend in spite of the cold weather.

Jennifer Casey and her two daughters, Jessica and Caitlin, flew to Wisconsin to visit with Jen's mother and father.

The big news was Jim Rector's climb up Mt. St. Helen in Oregon. Jim was accompanied by his two brothers. They are all experienced climbers and have plans to climb more mountains in the future. This fascinates me because I have trouble climbing up my driveway.

Gilead

by
Lin Chapman

The weather was not very cooperative this past weekend. Saturday was cold and quite windy, when the Gilead Historical Society was having Friends and Family Day, and Sunday was a beautiful day. When you plan an event you just hope for the best weather possible. At least, it did not rain all day.

There are not as many birds at the feeder lately. The little red squirrel scares them off. Although, on Friends and Family Day, there were two male rose-breasted grosbeaks and the little indigo bunting stopped by to check things out.

Gorham Historical Society
June 29 will mark the beginning of the Centennial Celebration of the Gorham, N.H.,

1907 Grand Trunk Railway Station, as sales will begin for the keepsake items of this special occasion. Gorham Historical Society will have a table on the common by the Information Booth between the hours of 1 and 7 p.m. each day from June 29 through July 4.

On Aug. 11, there will be a daylong event from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. A few of the attractions offered are: Train Rides, Antique and Classic Car Show, Children's Art Contest, Model Train Show, Musical and Singing Groups, Silent Auction, Raffles, 50/50 Raffle, Various Vendors, Flea Market, Books and Crafts Tables, Evening Contra Dance and many, many more things to do. FMI: (603) 466-2085 or e-mail maryjaneames@verizon.net.

Gilead Historical Society

The second Friends and Family Day was held on Saturday, June 23. Those who braved the dismal weather seemed to have a good time. It took quite a lot of manpower to get set up since there was also a Yard Sale in the Town Hall. Thanks to the Peabody Tavern Antique Shop in Gilead for the many items he donated and to the Antique Shop in the Steam Mill for items, too. Tim Chapman was an enormous help to us this year. He was here almost every day during the week before the event and made the several trips to the antique shops. He did most of the heavy lifting for anyone who needed help.

Thanks to the members of the GHS that helped set up on Friday, since there were a lot of last-minute things to do. Thanks to Fred Corriveau for helping with tables and chairs and thanks to Gould Academy for lending some to us. Thanks to the Bethel Historical Society for loaning us their freezer. They even delivered it and Steve McLain returned it.

The GHS was the lucky recipient of a painting of the Peabody Tavern, the barn and a few other little buildings that used to be there. Joanne 'Peabody' Stewart gave it to the GHS, and said that it was done many years ago by one of her ancestors. The area across from the Tavern was an open field instead of grown up like it is now. There will be more detail on this later.

The parade began at 10 a.m. and was led by Little Bo Peep (AKA Cathy McGuire) and just one of her sheep (AKA-Norm Buttrick). BoBo the Clown was there again this year to keep the children busy. He walked with them in the parade and did a show for them afterward. The first-place ribbon went to Octavia Hooper (almost four months old), who was dressed as an angel and carried by her mother, Bethany. Second place went to the Yankee Doodle Trio, William Chapman, Annie Chapman and Ajay Landry. Third place ribbon went to Sidney Chapman who was dressed as Little Miss Muffit and was accompanied by her spider. It was great to see all the children who came out for the parade.

The Coin Search game went quite well and all the wooden nickels that were hidden were turned in for a gold dollar. Bev Corriveau kept the kids busy with other games throughout the afternoon. Michele Landry helped with the face painting and I believe on one of my trips by, I saw Alicia McLean helping, too. The Skillet Toss was well attended again this year, but due to an unfortunate accident, the largest skillet will probably not return next year. One of the throws left it with quite a chunk broken out of it. The winners in the men's division were: first place, Chris Hooper; second place, Richard Saunders; third place, Eric Muchmore. Winners in the women's division were: first place, Bethany Hooper; second place, Darlene Corriveau-Levesque; third place, Cathy McGuire. Winners in the children's division were: first place, Fabian Corriveau; second place, Conner Muchmore; third place, Austin Corriveau.

There was a Yard Sale going on in the Town Hall all day along with historical items out for display. Some of the items were from the collection of artifacts that were given to the GHS from the Maine Historical Preservation Commission, and others were from Steve and Lise McLain, Norm Buttrick and Hugh and Lin Chapman.

There were several children who enjoyed riding on the horses and pony that were there throughout the day. Thanks to Ken Cole and his crew. Ken also brought some of his classic cars for people to enjoy. Richard Fraser, from Poland, Maine, brought his antique car and Jack Corriveau came along with his car and several people stopped to talk and ask questions.

There were two bands that played for those who braved the wind blowing through the tent. Richard Felt and his group started out playing many old favorites. As they were finishing up, they asked for requests from the crowd. Since my granddaughter, Sidney, loves the song, "You Are My Sunshine," I requested it. The band played and Sidney got to join in and sing along.

The second band was a trio from Portland called Dear Claudia. They did a great job and while they were here, they got a booking for another event.

The event ended with a talk by Dr. Stanley Howe of the Bethel Historical Society on the history of the Grange. He showed slides of some of the Grange buildings in the area.

After the Historical Talk, a presentation was made to two members of the GHS for all the work they did during the Bicentennial and since then for the society. The certificate read that the two people were made Honorary Members of the Gilead Historical Society in recognition for his/her dedication to the Gilead Historical Society. The recipients were Howard Reiche and Louise "Stevie" Reiche. They were unable to attend the event, but congratulations to the both of you!

The event was a lot of work for everyone, but worth it, if those who attended had a good time.

The Grafton Notch area of Newry now has a new campground.

It has many features for travelers including a bathhouse with hot showers. It also has a trailer dumping station. But, it does not have hookups or generators. If you are interested in spending a night or two or even longer to take in the many wonders of this area featured in the following Ode to Grafton Notch, call 824-2292 and Mark or Mo will be more than pleased to tell you all about the site and the charges for the time you wish to book.

of Conservation. He managed Grafton Notch, The Lily Bay State Park in Greenville and the Rangeley Lake State Park, to name a few. So with information from Mark, you will get a lot more about many of Maine's state parks.

A Toast to Grafton Notch on the Umbagog Trail

The poem that follows was sent to Bob Bartholomew by Doris and Richard Brown of Bethel, during the summer of 2006 when Bob was home recuperating.

I give a toast to Grafton Notch, (At home right here in Maine) Lying 'neath the towering peaks of Spec/I greet you once again.

The waters that flow down your mountainside/Form rivers at your feet,/And the spray that's dashing o'er your rocks/Is clear, and pure, and sweet;

The colossal horse, with lowered head,/Stands grazing by your side,/We call him "Saddleback" for indeed/'Tis a saddle deep and wide; Some day, perhaps, he will raise his head,/And with a snorting neigh,/He'll gallop down the glen unchecked,/And forever — run away!

Tall pine, and spruce, and hemlock/Stand guard o'er your Moose Cave,/While overhead their branches/In the sighing breezes wave. Screw Auger Falls down through the rocks/Holds his imperial sway./While ponderous boulders overhead/Try to check him on his way.

Far up on one of your mountain-tops/Lies a tiny jewel lake/Where crane, and goose, and wild duck/Their habitation make.

And who knows? Perhaps Titania dwells/In that green elfin land,/And on midsummer nights she may walk these woods/Leading her fairy band.

Your lookout station rears its head/Far above the fleecy cloud,/That drapes itself around Old Spec/Like a pale gray ghostly shroud.

Ah! 'Tis gone! The sun is shining!/The clouds have passed away/(Like a burst of song, when the heart is sad/Makes glad the dreariest day).

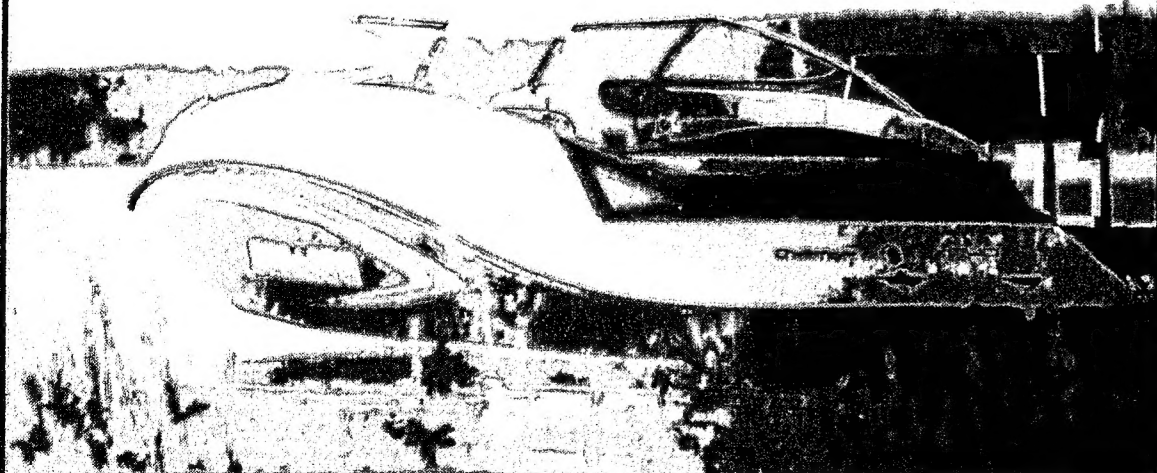

Your deep, dark, jail would hold/One hundred giant men,/And never would a ladder they invent/To get themselves out again.

Andover

The Transfer Station Committee would like to thank everyone for coming down to Andover's Recycling Kick-off last Saturday. They gave away 100 totes, compliments of Hannaford and Dave Duguay; David White's donuts were gobbled up (thanks David!) and Peter Coolidge won the $50 prize.

In addition, everyone learned about "single sort" recycling, plus how to set up recycling in our homes with hands-on demos from the high school students.

You may have noticed that we are now separating wood from the other debris. Maine Turnpike Authority donated the concrete barriers to help us take this easy step to help save tax dollars and reduce nails in the driving area!

Congratulations to Abby Mills, who was selected on the first team All Stars for Western Maine Class B softball. She and her family traveled to Augusta last Thursday for the All Stars Game.

The Andover Library will be closed on Wednesday, July 4, for the Fourth of July holiday.

The Andover Town Office will also be closed on Wednesday.

Have a fun Fourth of July week!

Greenwood City

by Wayne Hakala

On Thursday afternoon, Karen, Anita, and I attended the Norway Rehab and Living Center's Memory Garden Party "In Memory Of Your Loved One." The past year has seen so many loved ones pass on to Heaven. The list was way too long. Pastor Lloyd Waterhouse gave a very nice talk and a wonderful group provided music. I am sorry that I did not catch their names, but we were delighted with their talents. The Garden Party was truly in remembrance of all our loved ones and we thank all who took part and made it possible.

We knew Cubby Swan was at Norway Rehab and was planning on visiting. But he was right at the party and the big grin was there for all to see. Cubby is really looking and feeling good. Course he was sitting between two women and right in his glory. Then Denise, Melanie, and one little granddaughter came. We all had a nice visit and we hope he is home by the time this is printed.

On Saturday morning, townspeople and friends dedicated and opened Maggie's Nature Park. Maggie Ring's love for Greenwood shall go forward for all to remember. We all missed Maggie being a part of the dedication and tears were shed. However, we all have very happy memories of a truly wonderful, dear lady who has enriched so many with her smile. Thank you Maggie!

Maggie's Park has a number of well-marked trails to hike. Blaine Mills and Butch Fuller have worked countless hours to prepare this tribute to Maggie. Maggie wanted an "Old Ladies Trail." This was to be a trail that old ladies could easily hike. When Blaine asked her what color he was to use for the blazing, Maggie replied that any color was all right as long as it was "pink." And there were times that you just came to attention, salute and said, "Yes ma." When you partake of this treasure, take a moment and thank Maggie.

I want to take a space or two to thank all who helped with the Lodge and Aux. supper on Saturday evening. It was a wicked good time and plenty to eat. There are plans being made for future suppers, so stay tuned for some various good eating. After the supper cleanup we stopped at the Inch-By-Inch Farm to thank Rodney and Lisa for all their help and wonderful butter. And for Anita's cherry ice cream. Rodney was telling me of several ideas that are being made for the super farm center. So stay tuned for any important updates. And I'm positive they will be good. Plus he gave me some "Hot Pork Sausage" to try on a Super-Sized Hak-Attack breakfast sandwich. It will be an all-natural experience. I'll let y'all know the lip-smacking details very soon.

This coming Saturday, the 30th, there will be the annual Strawberry Festival at the Locke Mills Union Church. It will start at 7:30 a.m. and continue till all is sold out. Now there are the strawberries, Belgian waffles, shortcake, sundaes, pies, baked goods and more. You might as well start out a super Saturday with breakfast and continue right in to dessert too. For more info you can call Joyce Hathaway at 674-2259.

Whitman Memorial Library

in Bryant Pond will be holding its Book Sale on Saturday, July 7, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Come out and support this fine library.

Also, the Grange will be holding a Craft and Food Sale at the same time. Now this sounds like a one-stop shopping event in beautiful downtown Bryant Pond. Where else can you enrich the gray matter and satisfy the tummy in one stop? Enjoy!

My good friend in Florida spent Saturday at Daytona and sent me pictures by e-mail. Jim's pics are a lot better than those of the actual Daytona 500. Really nice! Thanks Jim.

Till next time, keep it happening on the sunny side!

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

The Special Town Meeting on June 19 lasted just 17 minutes.

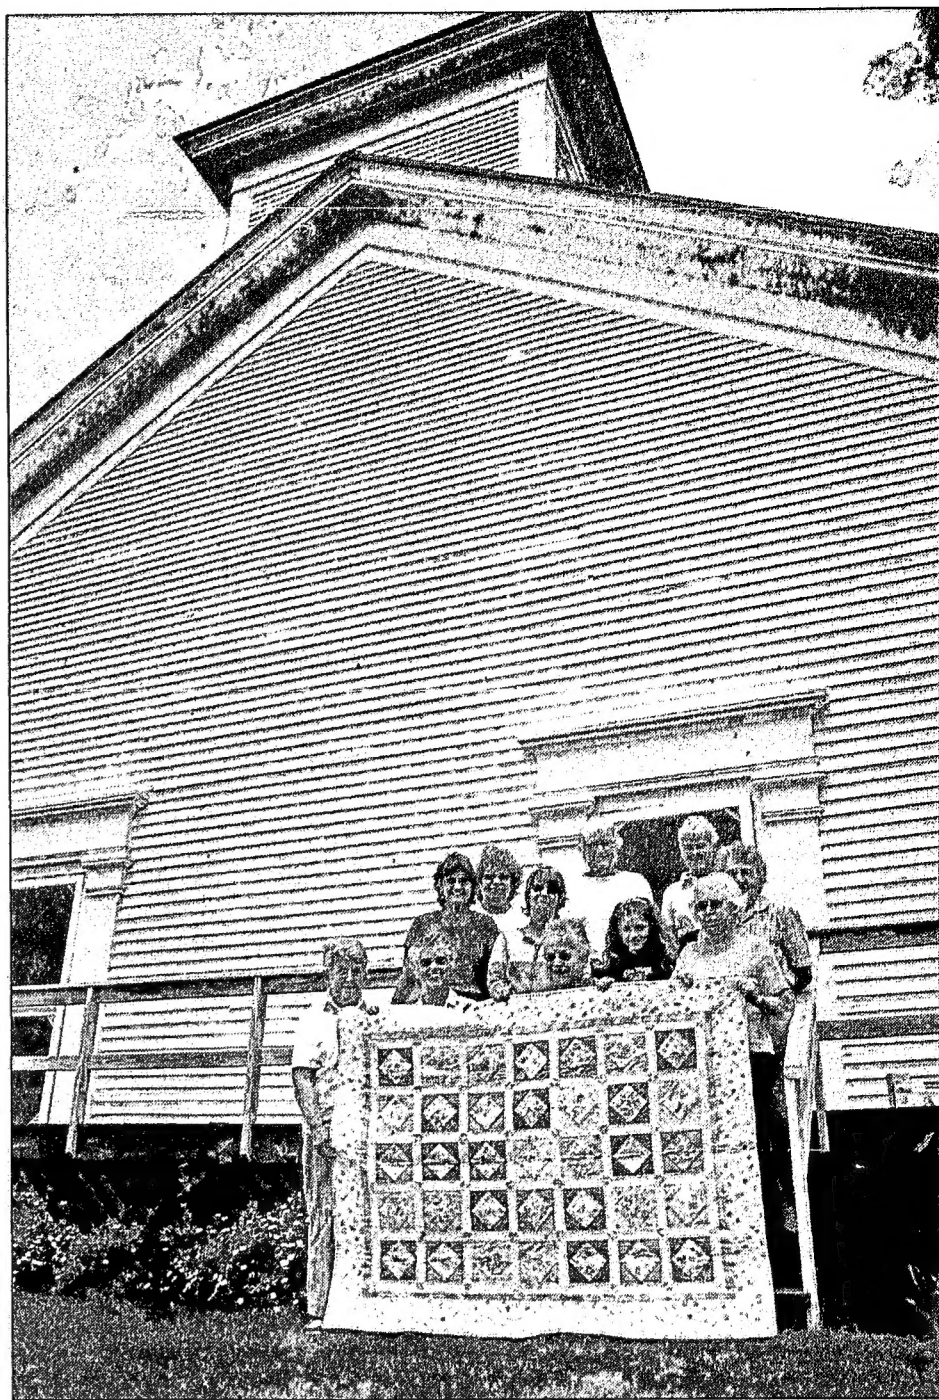

Wendy Hanscom, a Newry Select Person was chosen moderator for the meeting. All twelve articles brought before the 20 voters present were accepted with very little dissension. School budget items passed for the schools that Hanover students attend including SAD43, SAD44, Gould Academy and Region 9 School of Applied Technology. Voters also approved matching funds for a grant that will enable Hanover to update its Comprehensive Plan.

Other items approved were the Town of Hanover Floodplain Management Ordinance, Driveway Entrance Ordinance for Hanover and a wording change in the Town of Hanover Site Plan Review Ordinance.

The Hanover Select Board met following the Special Town Meeting. The board approved a Building Permit Fee Schedule by unanimous vote of the board. The schedule increases the amount charged to obtain a building permit for homes and businesses, non-residential structures and demolition permits. Dramatically increased are the fines for failing to obtain permits that can be as much as quadruple

"FLORAL EXPRESSIONS" is the theme for the 17th biennial Quilt Show, presented by the Cross Country Quilters of Bethel June 29 and 30. The show will take place at the Middle Intervale Meeting House on the Intervale Road from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. The show will offer hand-made items for sale, refreshments and a pastel "Fussy Flower Garden" lap-size quilt to be raffled on the last day of the show. The quilt is pictured here with members of the CCQ. Admission to the show is $5, and children under 12 are free. Proceeds from the show go toward the ongoing preservation of the Meeting House. the original permit fee. The board approved the expenditure warrant for the month, which included a new stipend paid to Planning Board members. That expenditure was approved at the annual Town Meeting last fall.

For Hanover taxpayers, this is just about it. The last week in June is just about over. All those tax bills are due June 30. Please keep in mind that the last business day in June will be Friday, June 29. If you haven't yet, you better make the trip to the Town Office and pay up before it is too late. The Town of Hanover does not accept a post date as the paid date.

Rose Hutchins is spending the summer with her daughter Debra and husband Bruce Swan in Springfield, Maine.

Betty Hayden went by ambulance to Rumford Hospital last week. Although still hospitalized she is reported to be improving.

Brad and Amanda Worcester, Mike Worcester and his friend Jenna Richards were in Hanover over the weekend and climbed to Table Rock in Grafton Notch State Park. It was the perfect spot to take a big leap and Mike did just that, as he presented Jenna with an engagement ring. The gift was accepted we presume.

Bill and Gail Worcester have returned home following a week's camping vacation at Eustis.

Pam Chartier, who has served as officer in charge at the Hanover Post Office since April 16, has returned to the Rumford Post Office following the return of Hanover Postmaster Gretchen Anderson, who completed her assignment in the Auburn Post Office. Welcome back, Gretchen. Special thanks to Pam for patiently helping us adjust to the new postal rates.

Get well wishes are also extended to Pam after her recent several-day hospital stay.

Things continue to change along Howard Pond Road. The large, white-birch tree at Penney's, next to the road, was taken down and cut up last Sunday. The huge tree had been showing its age and several times dropped limbs, sometimes blocking the road. Arnie Penney and his son Ste-

MORE ELBOW ROOM NEEDED—Last Thursday the Greater Bethel Area Skatepark Committee hosted an "International Go Skate Day Jam" at Davis Park in Bethel. Its purpose was to promote planned improvements to the skateboard area of the park and raise funds to help finance it. Above, Coleman Gross picks his way between other riders and right, Buck Silver leaves his board. Bethel voters recently approved $8,700 for skatepark improvements. That, coupled with a similar amount approved last year, totals just under $15,000. The money will go toward engineering, permitting, and site preparation. If individual donations go well construction of the first phase — a beginner/intermediate bowl and street bank area — can begin in the fall of 2007 or the spring of 2008. On Mollycodd Day the committee will host a booth on the common, offering skateboard demonstrations, raffles and refreshments. □

Florence Hastings had lunch one day last week with Ginny Gamble in town and on the 18th had lunch with Mary Alice Bancroft on Paris Hill.

Eric Wright saw something in the river where he lives on 20 June. He grabbed his spy glasses and saw it was a sow bear with two cubs hanging on for dear life as she swam from Hanover to our side of the river.

George and Barbara Bethel were visited again by a bear recently. The bear did the same thing as before, wreck the bird feeders and/or break them up.

Hopefully the berries and other foods they like will be here soon.

Roger and Louise Twitchell are both home now. Home Health comes to help Louise.

Stuart and Rolann Twitchell were camping with friends recently at Mt. Blue State Park in Wilton.

Andre and Flossie Bernier attended a wedding recently in St. Johnsbury, Vt.

The weather has been lovely lately. Maybe it will remain so.

God Bless the Troops.

The Woodstock-Greenwood

Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, July 5, at Greenwood Town Hall. Dinner will be put on by Greenwood Firemen's Auxiliary. A game party follows the dinner. Please bring an item for a game prize.

The Woodstock Extension recently met at Lois Howe's home for a planning meeting and Wendy Legg Pollock from the Extension Office gave a program on "Rethink Your Drink." Many people on diets don't count the calories in what they drink. A luncheon was held.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:25 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., youth group at 4 p.m., choir practice at 5 p.m., and evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening at 6:30 is prayer meeting.

Woodstock Historical Society

The Historical Society Museum features truly fine furniture, a collection of costume jewelry and real minerals. They also have several books on gems and minerals and a great collection of glass and china — everything from amberina to sets of dinner plates, collections of ruby glass and cobalt blue and little dishes from many different countries. So visit and plan to spend plenty of time looking around.

The society members give of their best for the benefit of all. They try to help people with their genealogy.

Ruby Emery's research is all available in the museum and her cemetery survey of Woodstock has been kept up to date.

Paul and Vicki Billings watched the museum recently and four visitors came in. Larry supplied flowers from the Billings' garden, which is looking great now with peonies, old-fashioned yellow roses and Japanese irises all blossomed. The museum is open each Saturday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. Come visit it. Meetings are the second Saturday of each month at 7 p.m. at the museum.

Lawnmowers are humming, birds are singing woodchucks and skunks are about in the back field. Shorts and T-shirts are the style. It is handy to go out without sweaters and jackets.

It is time to be carefree and prepare quick meals on the grill. I hope everyone has a good summer.

The West Sumner Universalist Church is opening for the summer months of July and August. On July 1, Marilyn Hammond will be the speaker. Services start at 11 a.m. followed by a coffee hour with delicious food and great conversation. All are welcome.

There will be a book sale on July 7 at the Whitman Memorial Library in Bryant Pond at 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Also in Bryant Pond, the Grange will hold a food and craft sale at the Grange Hall from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the same day. Plan to take in both.

There should be more news after I return from work week at Ferry Beach in Casco. Good neighbors, the Waltons, always looked after Buffy when I was away and will do the same for Muffin. I trust Muffin will welcome them and not hide, for they will be her food source.

Mason

by Richard
Grover

First, I would like to apologize to those to whom I had promised last week to write an article reminding people to e-mail our Congressional delegation to vote to fund the purchase of the 600-acre "Haystack Notch Trail" woodland for national forest land. I did submit the article, but for some reason, The Citizen omitted it. Hopefully, it will get into the paper this week.

A bear or bears continued scrounging birdfeeders and garbage cans in the neighborhood again last week. Big sister Verna lost several birdfeeders destroyed by a bear. She picked up the pieces and put them into her otherwise empty trash can in her garage, and the bear returned the following night, emptied the can and scattered the remnants of the birdfeeders again about the driveway. Verna now tries to remember to keep her garage door closed at night.

Rupert and Ina have a large "bear proof" plywood box just outside their back door, in which they keep bird food and trash cans. After the bear had knocked over the box and carried off a bag of bird food one night (the box cover was not locked that night), Rupert wired the box shut and wired a cow bell to the box the next night. The bear came and knocked over the box with a loud thud and ringing of the bell at 9 p.m. the next night. He then ran off; he was back a couple more times thumping the box around during the night. Rupert awoke and scared the bear off both times, and the box remained intact. Next evening, just before dark, he was showing me how he wired up box and bell, when he looked up and saw a smallish bear in the field behind the barn. After "admiring" the bear for a while, I got Snuffy out of the truck, and we ran the bear off into the woods. Snuffy gave him a rapid sendoff, and returned all out of breath after about three minutes. He can cover a lot of ground in a very short time. At church, Rupert was telling Ken McGinnis about how he "belled the bear."

Boston Ludden (of Mason) is playing baseball with the other seven-year-olds this summer on the Rockies team; I guess it's the pee wee league. He does pretty well for a kid that age and has got several hits. His grandmother Jane says Boston shuts his eyes when he hits the ball!

On Tuesday of last week there was a meeting at Pooh Corner Farm of concerned citizens and conservation groups interested in completing the US Government purchase of the 600-acre "Haystack Notch Trailhead" parcel in Mason for national forest land. You may recall that this purchase has been included in the President's budget request for the FY 2008 and is the only land east of the Mississippi River included in his '08 budget request for national forest purchase.

This land parcel has been purchased by the Trust for Public Lands organization and is being held by them only until the government can complete the funding process. What remains to be completed is for Congress to actually fund this purchase, which in these days of "budget crunches," is by no means a sure thing. Therefore, we need everyone interested in acquiring this land as national forest land to contact their congressional representatives and urge them to support passage of legislation to fund the acquisition.

Because of the slow nature of "snail mail" delivery to US Senators and Representatives (all mail going to Congress has to be screened by the Postal Service), only electronic means (telephone, fax or email) will be fast enough. The FY 2008 budget will need to be passed before October 2007, when FY 2008 begins.

Contact your Maine congressional delegation at the following addresses on the Internet, and then fill out the forms provided on these websites to state your message: <http://snowe.senate.gov> <http://collins.senate.gov> <http://michaud.house.gov> <http://allen.house.gov>

Please urge our congressional representatives to support this land purchase in the interests of conservation of natural resources, preserving recreational opportunities for sportsmen and hikers, as well as providing future jobs in the lumber industry, a truly "multiple use forest" opportunity.

In other news here, a bear or bears have been active in our area lately. One of these critters has been seen at Mike and Rosemary Stackhouse's, Rupert Grover's and at Matt and Monica Ludden's house, getting into birdfeeders and garbage cans. Snuffy has been barking at night lately, too; that's usually a sign that a bear or moose is prowling! A word to the wise should suffice: quit feeding the birds, and keep your garbage bags/cans secure until time for it to be picked up. P.S.: birdfeeders can also spread disease among our feathered friends during warm weather if you feed them then.

We also have some thieving crows around here, too. I've had to replant my sweet corn two times so far because the blasted crows have been pulling up almost every corn plant as soon as it comes up — eating the kernel and dropping the sprout on the ground. The third time, I put some old crow repellent (coal tar and creosote) on the seed corn. If that doesn't work, I give up, at least for this year!

There are a couple of graduates in Mason Township this June. Jessica Ladd, Jen Grover's daughter, graduated from Telstar Middle School on June 12. She will be attending Gould Academy this fall.

Ina attended her great-grandson, Jacob Solmitz's, graduation from Waterford Elementary School on June 14.

My dad was drawn for a bull moose permit. I will be going with him to Rangeley in October. I'd better brush up on my shooting skills!

Ireland Trip — Day 5

Galway to Letterkenny
On Thursday, May 10, we departed our hotel at 9 a.m. and headed northward. Matt was in an expansive mood and began more lessons on Ireland.

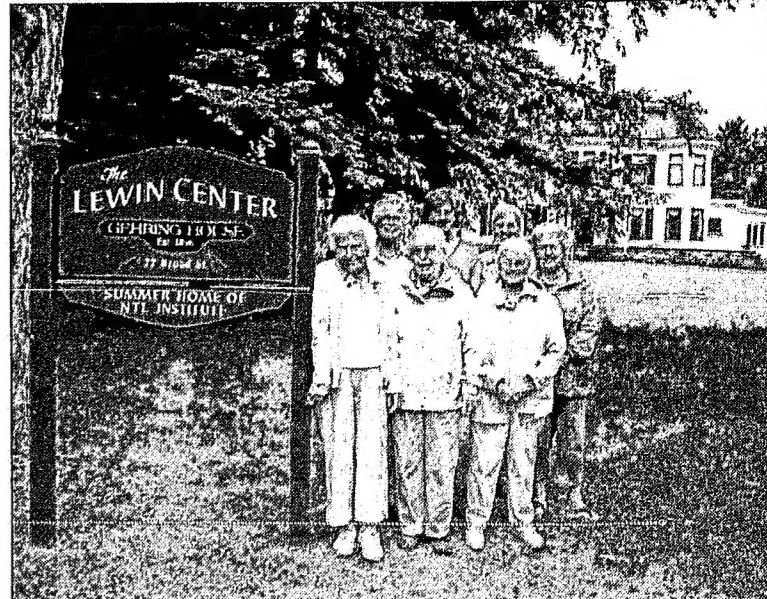

He began by telling us that the Irish, as did many early civilizations in Europe, used only a single name for individuals. Gradually, they began more complete identification by adding surnames; often this was initially a description of the person's appearance or his occupation. For example, "Douglas" means "dark haired foreigner." "Kennedy" means "head banded." A very loud female fairy was called a "ban-shee!" There were many more which I could not write fast enough to get down; at any rate, I repeat what Matt said and do not vouch for the veracity of these claims!

On this leg of the journey, Matt also reported that singer Johnny Cash once visited Ireland and was so impressed by all the color greens that he wrote the song, "Forty Shades of Green" while here. I personally don't remember that song, but I admit that there are lovely shades of green everywhere you look. Somewhere along here, Matt told of an elderly Irish woman who would order a glass of whisky (Jameson's) with just two drops of water. The bartender asked her why she only took two drops of water. Her response: "I can hold my whisky, but I can't hold my water!"

Soon, we arrived at the town of Knock. "Knock" means hill in Irish; we are in the town of Knock, where in 1879 an apparition of the Virgin Mary appeared. The Catholic Church investigated and declared the claim authentic and named a Marian shrine. A circular church was built here to accommodate the many pilgrimages who flock here, and now the town is full of religious bookstores and gift shops where you can buy 'authentic' religious articles. I'll give you about an hour here to look around the shrine and absorb the atmosphere." After a brief visit to the shrine chapel, we were back on the bus and resumed our northward trip.

In about 30 minutes we were through the town of Sligo and at the Drumcliffe churchyard, the burial place of the famed Irish poet, William Butler Yeats. This is a beautiful old cemetery. Yeats' grave sports both an upright stone and a flat stone surface upon which is inscribed: "But I, being poor, have only my dreams; I have spread my dreams under your feet. Tread softly because you tread on my dreams." Once we re-boarded the bus, Joe Perham gave us his enjoyable rendition of Yeats' poem, "The Fiddler of Doonbeg." Remember, Joe used to be a high school English teacher!

Another short drive brought us to the village of Bealeek, home of the Bealeek Pottery Factory. After lunch, we were led on a guided tour of the factory, where we observed all the steps in the making of pottery. After viewing the intricate handwork involved, including three firings for each piece, we understand why the pieces are expensive. When someone asked about worker salaries, we were told that they are paid on a "piecework" basis, and it was obvious, as all the workers we saw were diligently applying themselves to the tasks at hand.

From Bealeek, we continued northward to our hotel for the night at the city of Letterkenny. We noted that the agriculture of this area included more fields of grain (probably malt and barley for the brewing industry) and, for the first time, what appeared to be newly furrowed potato fields that were apparently recently planted.

Matt described a practice of royalty in the past, where they raced on horseback across country from one town to the next by homing in on the church steeples, the first part of town to come into view; hence, the term "steeplechase!" We also noted a lot of building construction as we approached the city.

Matt pointed out that both northern and southern Ireland are booming economically at present, and a lot of Irish are returning to their homeland for the first time due to the prospects for employment.

Tuesday, as I was getting my hair done, he got out past a customer and tried the same stunt up Route 26. Both times he was caught before he got hit, thanks to some very alert and thoughtful drivers, and others, but I hope he doesn't try any more stunts like that. His luck may run out at some point, and I know there would be some pretty sad people if anything happened to him, including me.

He is so quick it is hard to keep him from getting away, and I found out with Chloe that it doesn't take much room for them to squeeze through an opening. So far I have been lucky that the couple of times she got out she was more interested to see what was in the carport than what was up the street, but she is getting older; and, like children, they start expanding their horizons as they get older. She is a bit more timid than Brutus because she doesn't get to see as many people or go as many places, but I expect that will change as she grows in size and confidence.

What a beautiful weather we have been having. I have been told there has been a cow moose seen in the water in back of my house early in the morning. I shall have to set my alarm and see if I can't get a peek at her. It has always seemed odd to me that there haven't been some because it seems like the ideal grazing place.

I know there is a lot of activity during the late evening hours, but I have never been able to catch sight of anything. I know Chloe, who has ears as big as bats when she puts them up, hears many things I don't. After losing Jack-Cat I keep Garbo in after dark. She doesn't like it much but I had gotten too complacent where they always seemed to come back all right and it took a wakeup call to remind me there are things that go bump in the night and my animals are safer inside.

Will Coolidge was telling me that there are a lot of chipmunks around Mary's house. Now I know where they all moved to after they decided Garbo was too much of a killing machine. She brought a live one into the house about a week ago. I put her upstairs and Chloe into the bedroom and opened the door wide in hopes it went out. I didn't see it go but she didn't go looking for it when she finally got back downstairs so I figured it was either gone or dead. If you go by and there is an odd smell wafting out, at least odder than usual, it just might be the chipmunk. I have no sense of smell but I hope I might catch that; it seems as if even a faulty olfactory organ ought to pick up that!

Bertha Flanders, formerly of Locke Mills, is celebrating her 97th birthday on Monday, June 25. As she is the oldest member of the Locke Mills Union Church, they are presenting her with a special Bible on Sunday. She still has her own apartment, address: 235 High Street, Buck Hill Apt. 23, South Paris, ME 04281, if you would like to send her a card.

The Yomupami Gang (which stands for the families of York, Murphy, Patton, Mills, all descendants of Bertha and Clayton Mills of Bethel, planned a little surprise for Barry and Marie (Mills) York last weekend for their 50th wedding anniversary.

They sent them off for a night of fine food, and whatever, and when they arrived home the next day they found their lawn and property filled with tents of all descriptions, as many of the family that could, showed up to help them celebrate.

One of their daughters even brought her family from Germany, which was no mean feat, as the children are still in school over there and absences are frowned on. It took quite a long time and a lot of preparation, including informing all the homes in the neighborhood, and everyone did marvel that nothing leaked back to Barry and Marie, as they were truly surprised and touched. I am sure they all had a lot of fun.

Of course, I can't believe it has been fifty years. I remember when they got married very well, as Marie had wanted me to bring Ralph, who was just a little fellow. I was rather skeptical at taking a yearling to church for a ceremony like that but he did very well until...

The minister had just asked all the people to stay seated as the newly wedded couple made their way out, but he may have regretted that order when, as the organ blared out the recessional, my young son, scared at the loud noise, lifted his voice and screamed and he kept screaming as they made their way all the way down what seemed a very long aisle. I am sure that Marie and Barry had so many lovely memories that they may not even remember that not-so-lovely one. But I sure do!

Chloe is being entertained by a gray squirrel looking for tidbits outside. She isn't sure what it is but she figures it shouldn't be there and is voicing her opinion very loudly. It is a good thing that barking dogs don't bother me, as she is very talkative.

The only time it bothers me is if she is outside and I am concerned she is bothering the neighbors. When I was a young person, many, many years ago, we had a person in town who raised hunting dogs and had an outside kennel. Those dogs were so noisy I guess I got used to barking dogs. Back then there were no ordinances to put a stop to it so you grinned and put up with it. And I learned to shut noises out, which sometimes has served me well over the years. As for the squirrel, I hope it doesn't run afoul of Garbo because she does like to hunt only too well.

Enjoy June, it will soon be July and we will have to start preparing for winter once again.

Some smart souls have already gotten woodpiles drying. Summer is just too short! Until next time you keep it happening!

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

It is Monday; the weather people promise hot, hazy and humid.

At 6 a.m. it already is 60 degrees. Even the birds have been sluggish. The mourning doves have been eating profusely, but the others are slow to approach the feeders.

We put fencing up for our peas and cukes yesterday. It looks good; we'll see how well it works. Veggies have a way of growing as they will. I did notice a few flowers on the squash vines. They are on the mystery squashes that we got because no one knew what they were. We will see soon enough. We have already eaten radishes and kale. Spinach is next. The lettuce is slow.

I notice that the sign is up for strawberries. We will be going out for them soon. We pick enough each year for the winter. They are best when they are ripe and fresh. Put them with the rhubarb which is prolific this year and we might have a good pie.

Getting to be time for the summer festivals and the 4th celebrations. Waterford commons will be the sight of the annual race and chili cook-off. I always seem to miss it because I have to work. This year is no exception. David and I will be in Bethel holding down the fort.

Thursday, the 28th, Mountain Poets will be meeting at Fare Share Commons at 7 p.m. All poets are welcome. Bring something to share or come to just listen. It is the last reading before Poets on the Porch at the July Summer Festival in Norway. Join us there, too. There is still time to sign up to read at POP. Call 743-9808 to register.

That is all for this week. Don't forget the sunscreen and stay cool.

Telstar Alumni Association

The Telstar Alumni Association will once again sponsor a trophy to recognize the Telstar Alumni Car Show entry. All non-alumni car show participants vote on their favorite Telstar Alumni entry. Alumni can enter a car, truck, street rod, motorcycle or tractor in the July 21 Car Show.

Past alumni winners were Grayson Wakefield at the 2003 Car Show with his 1970 Mustang Mach 1. The 2004 winner was Ken Cole with a 1960 Ford T-Bird. In 2005 and 2006 the winner was Emery Ricker with his 2003 Ford Ranger and 2006 Ford Fusion.

All alumni are invited to participate at the 7th annual Telstar Car Show on Saturday, July 21, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There are 21 classes with winners in each class for first, second and third place. There is a $5 entry fee. All proceeds from this show benefit Telstar students.

From

Western Mountains Senior College

WMSC offers a number of activities for members and guests throughout the year. There are two events coming up in July that you won't want to miss: A "Nature Walk in Evans Notch" and a "Field Trip to Nezinscot Farm" in Turner.

Nature Walk in Evans Notch

On Thursday, July 5, this nature walk will start at the parking lot for the Baldface Trail in Evans Notch on Route 113 in Chatham, N.H. We'll follow an easy-to-moderate path through typical New England woods and end up at the Cold River to examine stream life. We'll finish off with a bag lunch by the river (or in a screen "tea house" if the biting things are really bad). If you don't mind the cold water, there's a lovely place to swim.

We'll leave from 16 Park Street at 9:30 a.m. to make the 30-minute drive over beautiful Route 113 to the south side of Evans Notch. Plan to wear sturdy athletic shoes or boots, bring bug spray, sunscreen, and water and look ahead to a great adventure! For more information or to sign up, please call Jackie Cressy at 824-0508.

Nezinscot Farm Field Trip
On Tuesday, July 10 (rain date July 11), members and guests are invited to take an interesting and unique field trip to Nezinscot Farm in Turner, which became the first certified organic dairy farm in the state in 1994.

There will be much to see and learn at this working family farm where they practice sustainable agriculture. You'll see and savor the difference on your visit to their farm store, café, tea house, cheese room, wool and fiber shop and community barn. You can walk through their gardens or along the fields and river — and smell that hay! If interested, you can also learn about investing in their programs of "community supported agriculture."

Nezinscot Farm is a third-generation dairy farm originally owned by Gregg Varney's grandfather, Gregg and his wife bought the 250-acre farm from his parents in 1987 and began dairying once again a year later. The Varneys diversified to include their farm store, which specializes in marketing the remaining products that are grown and produced on their farm. This includes organic meats, milk, cheese (from their goats and cows), vegetables, herbs, wool and exotic yarns from their own sheep, llamas, and alpacas, and canned goods from their garden — all certified organic. The Varney family believes it is important that we know where our food comes from. Their focus is to maintain and encourage diverse and sustainable agricultural systems for family farms so that they will remain a part of Maine's working landscape.

We'll take the hour's drive to the farm in our own cars. We'll gather at the parking lot behind the Casablanca Cinema and leave Bethel at 8 a.m. in order to arrive and tour the farm before the hottest part of the day. Joe Arizzi, the WMSC coordinator for this trip, suggests that we plan to eat a late breakfast at the farm's café shortly after we arrive and then tour the farm. There is no WMSC cost for this event but you'll be responsible for the cost of your breakfast. Please call Joe at 824-0080 to sign up if you plan to attend.

Down Home Series

Stan Howe, executive director, Bethel Historical Society, presented an entertaining and informative talk on the past, present and future of the society at the Moses Mason House on Friday evening. This was the last of the spring series of Down Home Maine, which was co-sponsored by WMSC and the Historical Society.

WMSC program committee members are on the lookout for unique, creative and adventurous people for the fall series. Any ideas? Call Peter at 665-2181.

Deertrees Theater Trip

Eight WMSC members and guests enjoyed "After Reny's, The Musical Sequel," at the Deertrees Theater Sunday afternoon and believe it even topped last year's show. Those attending who also took advantage of the scenic outdoor grounds for a picnic lunch included Mary Stryker, Sandy Elder, Bernadette Mickeriz, Arita Zitoli, Peter and Mary Ellen Gartner, Marilyn Sahlborg and Rosabelle Tiff.

Estimated avoided cost for April is $30,829.20.

Shipped 69.73 tons of corrugated cardboard with an estimated sale value of $4,992.10.

Shipped 86.71 tons of newspapers, magazines and junk mail with an estimated sale value of $9,140.79.

Congratulations to the following recycling teams: Tri-Town for packing seven out of seven cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each. Greenwood/Woodstock for packing four out of five cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each. Stoneham/Waterford for packing five out of seven with containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each. West Paris for packing three out of five cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each and Gould Academy for packing one out of one container weighing in at over 1,000 pounds.

Packing cardboard containers with over 1,000 pounds is time consuming. Hauling a fully loaded container to the recycling plant in Norway/Paris is cost efficient for the corporation. We appreciate your efforts.

Congratulations to Tri-Town (Bethel, Hanover, and Newry) and Gould Academy, SAD44, and Sunday River for saving your taxpayers over $5,201 due to recycling more and trashing less. From now until December it will cost your towns $0 per ton to recycle and over $100 per ton to trash the same material.

Please think twice as to which container you throw your recyclables into.

If it's recyclable please put it into the appropriate recycling container in order to continue to save your town over $100 per ton.

As the figures show, recycling does pay. Thank you for your participation.

From

Maine Conservation School

The Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife (ME DIF&W) has notified the Maine Conservation School (MCS) of the availability of additional scholarship funds for its Conservation Camp program.

In April, MCS was notified that it would receive approximately $30,000 in scholarship funds generated from the ME DIF&W annual moose permit auction. After passing emergency legislation (LD 175), the Maine State Legislature effectively increased the number of permits auctioned, thereby increasing available funds. MCS now has approximately $20,000 more in scholarships to distribute. These funds will be awarded in $200 scholarships for the Conservation Camp summer program at MCS. In this week-long, hands-on outdoor skills program, Maine young people between the ages of 10 to 13 will be certified in boating safety and hunter safety (either archery or firearms) and begin to develop their own personal conservation ethic.

These scholarship funds will be awarded on a first-come, first-served basis; some restrictions may apply. Many other local groups have also

WOODCRAFTERS—When Telstar High School students Mallory Brown (left) and Jenn Learned enrolled in Tim O'Connor's wood-working class this past semester, they decided they wanted to do a project that was more challenging than average. They found one — building a 16-foot wooden canoe. "It was definitely harder," said Mallory. With funding help from Project Opportunity, they built the basic canoe of white cedar, the gunwales of ash and the deck plates of cherry wood. When they finished it, they presented it to O'Connor as a gift. He said he will keep custody of it, but hopes the girls will use it themselves over the coming years. Despite all the hard work, said Jenn, "I would do it again." (Photo: A. Aloisio)

TOWN OF BETHEL PUBLIC HEARING MASON STREET SIDEWALK
The Bethel Board of Selectmen will hold a Public Hearing on Monday, July 9, 2007 at 7 PM at the Bethel town office. The hearing will be held to receive public comment, written and oral, concerning construction of a sidewalk, approximately 5 feet in width and 1,600 feet in length, running along the northerly side of Mason Street and westerly side of Crescent Drive. The sidewalk will begin at the intersection of Broad and Mason Streets, and terminate at the Crescent Park School. A pink line was recently painted along Mason Street to indicate where the sidewalk curbs will be, closest to the street.
A variety of actions are being considered, in conjunction with this project. They include establishment of one-way traffic on Mason Street, prohibition of streetside parking (one or both sides) and revised signage and street marking. While project funding ($136,000) has been secured, final construction plans and related traffic control actions remain subject to approval by the Board of Selectmen. No decisions have been made in this regard.
Written comment may also be submitted to the Board of Selectmen prior to July 9 by hand-delivery to the town office, mail at P.O. Box 1660 Bethel, ME 04217, and email to info@bethelmaine.org. For more information, please call 824-2669.

DEERTREES THEATRE, IT'S NOT JUST "HIGHBROW"

If you are one of those people still thinking that Deertrees Theatre is only about lovely chamber music played in an idyllic setting, it's time to expand your thinking and realize that the idyllic setting and perfect acoustics that work so well for "highbrow" music, works just as well for other types of music.

This summer Deertrees invites you to come have a beer (or two), or a glass of wine (or two) in their Salt Lick Café and then experience some very funky music in a really cool place. Located just outside the village of Harrison, the former opera house is rustic, laid-back, and quite a change from the standard music venues.

And just take a look at some of the "low brow" music they have scheduled. If you can't find something that fits your taste, you are simply not trying.

Close your eyes while listening to The Hunger Mountain Boys (Saturday, July 7th), and you might think you've fallen through a crack in time. Like a backwoods moonshiner, the Massachusetts trio distills the best of country and bluegrass music from 1930s, '40s and '50s into a 100-proof blend of tight vocal harmonies, deft finger-pickin' and, at times, wistful melancholy. Their spirit-filled performances have won them national recognition and their music has taken them from coast to coast, putting them on stages with roots-based artists such as Taj Mahal, Doc Watson, and Ralph Stanley.

On Friday July 13th it's Ball in the House. This five guy Boston based group is a tasty mélange of classic street-corner soul, funk, rhythm & blues and hip-hop. "Their jaw-dropping a cappella brilliance, Top 10 song-crafting skills, and genius arrangements make BiH one of the best bands around bar none," writes Songwriter's Monthly. They have opened and performed with Gladys Knight, Jessica Simpson, Blondie, The Temptations, Smokie Robinson, Kool & the Gang, and a bunch of others. The show starts at 8pm.

On Saturday July 14th, Deertrees welcomes the exquisitely inventive guitar player Patty Larkin. On tour for her 10th album "Red = Luck," Patty's compelling and seductive vocals take center stage and defy all your folk music expectations. With a texturally rich conglomeration of Middle Eastern, Celtic, and pop influences, she so rivets her audiences that she has been hailed by the Boston Globe as "One of the finest architects of song."

A New England tradition since the 1970's, Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys are one of the northeast's most imaginative and creative acoustic bands. Their dynamic stage show is full of exciting music, spontaneous humor, and great entertainment as their vast repertoire includes traditional fiddle and banjo tunes, standard bluegrass songs, folk and country ballads, and spirituals. Friday, July 20th.

Tom Snow may be best known locally for all the wedding and prom gigs he has played; however, he is also one of New England's most versatile and sought-after musicians. An amazingly versatile and swingin' jazz pianist, Tom has played with many of the top jazz luminaries and toured internationally. Joining him at on Saturday, July 21st for a very special Deertrees performance will be saxophonist Ralph Norris, bassist Tim Webb, and drummer Steve Grover.

Other names not to miss this summer include the April Verch Band, the Bo & Bill Winkler Quartet and the Edith Jones Project. All shows start at 8pm. Doors open at 7:30. Tickets prices are from $16 to $20. For complete program information and secure on-line ticketing, please visit the Deertrees website at www.deertrees-theatre.org.

This summer Deertrees is the place to be. Come on out and discover what a "highbrow" venue can do for your music. And don't forget to bring your friends.

8 p.m. — At Deertrees Theatre, Harrison: The Hunger Mountain Boys with The WYOWs, a Massachusetts bluegrass band music from the '30s, '40s and '50s can be described as Vaudevilian Ragtime-Blues meets Hill Billy Swing. Tickets: $16, available online at www.deertrees-theatre.org/Schedule or Books N Things, Bethel, The Cool Moose, Bridgton, Center Lovell Market, Lovell, The Country Sleigh, Naples and Fare Share, Norway. HEADED FOR THE WORLDS
Steeplechaser Anna Willard of Greenwood has qualified to compete in Japan in the world championships in August. Willard (at right in photo) placed second in the event in the U.S. Track and Field Championships, held Saturday in Indianapolis. Willard, who won the Division I Collegiate Championship earlier this month, finished second Saturday by .08 of a second. According to her mother, Nancy, Anna had injured her ankle in the qualifying heat and stumbled twice in the water jumps. "She was disappointed not to place first, but still picked up her personal best by 4 seconds," said Nancy. "We are extremely proud of her and all of her accomplishments. She's off to Europe for a month of racing most likely non-steeple events." (Photo: N. Willard)

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
WHEN AN AGENT DROPS BY WITH A BUYER
You just received a call from a Realtor who wants to show your house later in the day. When the house is ready, what should you do? Relax and allow your real estate agent to do what you hired them for!

It is difficult for an agent or a prospective buyer to deal with a "helpful" seller who wants to make sure that nothing is missed. If the owners follow the Realtor through the house, listening to every word and elaborating on everything, it will be difficult for the buyers to envision the house as their own. Buyers go through a process that involves raising objections and working through them with the Realtor. If the owners are present, the buyers may feel inhibited, not wanting to offend them by criticizing their home. The owner may appear overly eager to sell, sending unconscious signals that could influence the buyer to present a lower offer than they might otherwise have made.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771

In Loving Memory

Robert J. Lowe
Father & Grampa
1/18/23 - 6/28/90

We often sit and think of him when we are all alone, For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.

Like ivy on the withered oak,

when all other things decay,

Our love for him will still keep green,

And never fade away.
